

Annual CLL Workshop

October 10-11, 2007

Join the Wildlife Habitat Council for the 2007 *Corporate Lands for Learning*SM (CLL) Education and Outreach Workshop at the BP Decatur Plant in northern Alabama on the Tennessee River. Located on the 500 plus acres of this award winning wildlife habitat is the Wetlands Edge Environmental Learning Center (WEEC). The facility is a cooperative effort with local school systems to enhance environmental learning in the Decatur area. More than two miles of trails traverse the surrounding habitat enabling visitors to view diverse ecosystems. The Decatur Plant's program has been WHC certified for Wildlife at Work since 1994 and CLL since 2001. The Decatur Plant was also honored with WHC's prestigious Corporate Habitat of the Year award.

- Become trained in the Council for Environmental Education's Project WILD and Project WILD Aquatic;
- Observe Decatur schools using the WEEC facilities first hand;
- Participate in a workshop to design or expand CLL programs at your site, and receive guidance and assistance from WHC employees and WEEC staff; and
- Meet with other sites participating in WHC's CLL program to share ideas and experiences.

Transportation and Meals

WHC will have a van and will be available to shuttle participants between the airport (Huntsville-Decatur—HSV) and the Courtyard by Marriott on October 9th and 11th by request if you provide us with your flight information on the registration form. Breakfast and lunch will be included both days, and dinner the night of October 10th will be sponsored by BP.

Suggested Attire

Dress casually for this event as we will be participating in hands-on and outdoor activities. The average high temperature in Decatur in October is 74 degrees, so you may want to bring layers for morning activities. Please wear comfortable shoes you can do some walking in. Also, bring a waterproof outer layer in case it rains.

Certification in Project WILD

Workshop participants will receive guidebooks for Project WILD and Project WILD Aquatic along with a Certificate upon completing the training.
