

The Buzz about Pollinators

Announcing the Pollinators Conference Information for Action

*Pollinators are in trouble
yet they provide important services for agriculture and help sustain many native populations of plants and animals – including people.*

Friday and Saturday
October 3 & 4, 2008

Held at UMass in Amherst, MA

Open to the public
Registration Required

At this conference, researchers from around the country will:

-  Provide up to date information on; pollinator status, threats, and research methods.
-  Inform landowners and managers about practices that sustain pollinators.
-  Describe existing outreach efforts, including partnerships, citizen science, and education.

Scientists & naturalists, concerned citizens & educators, farmers & gardeners, and governmental agencies & non-governmental organizations that manage lands will find this information valuable.

Registration and Details on the web: www.millersriver.net

Sponsored by: Athol Bird & Nature Club and the Millers River Environmental Center
Silvio O. Conte National Fish and Wildlife Refuge
Region 5 of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service